

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

In relation to the Corona Virus situation

26 February 2020

Addressed to all conference participants

As we received several emails asking whether the Conference will be organized as planned, the organizers like to make the following statement based on current situation.

The organizers of EUROMATH & EUROSCIENCE 2020 are watching the situation on a daily basis and follow instructions by authorities for measures to be taken that provide better protection for everyone.

The conference programme is ready and it is printed and everything is planned for 500+ participants. The Authorities in Greece made announcements and gave instructions to hotels for improved measures. They also write that in case Greece is affected and the situation gets worse they may announce cancellations of big events. In that case, we will have no choice but to follow these instructions.

Participants from affected regions of Italy, following instructions from their authorities, have cancelled their participation. The students from Italy will be given the opportunity to make their presentations via SKYPE as they appear on the programme.

The conference has no participants from affected countries like China, S. Korea and Iran. We had one non-completed registration from Iran so no invitation for visa is given.

If the situation remains stable, we will expect the participants in Thessaloniki in two weeks with a great conference planned for them.

As mentioned above, we will be watching the situation and we will be making new announcements, if needed.

With great respect,

The Organizing Committee of EUROMATH & EUROSCIENCE 2020
